MISSOULA--

The "Saturday Arts Enrichment Program," now in its 11th year at the University of Montana in Missoula, begins Saturday, Oct. 8, at UM for all persons from age 3 through high school. The program, sponsored by the UM Department of Art, continues through Nov. 19.

Richard B. Reinholtz, associate professor of art at UM, who is director of the program, said the classes "provide creative, first-person activities in various aspects of the arts--visual, music, dance, drama and writing."

Registration will start at 9 a.m. Saturday in room 101 of the UM Fine Arts Building. Cost is 75 cents per session or $5.25 for the seven-week program.

Fred Woody, a former high school teacher in Lawson, Mo., who is a graduate student studying for his master of fine arts degree at UM, is coordinator of the Saturday art sessions. University students who are general elementary school and art majors teach the classes. A visiting artists' program also will be included in the program.

More information may be obtained by phoning the UM art department office, 243-4181.
